A Mass Minute
By Deacon Ed Winter

The second scripture reading is from the New Testament, usually one of the letters or epistles. These are 21 documents, mostly actual letters written to local Churches or individuals, usually beginning with a greeting. The body of the letter is a Christian teaching, usually responding to a circumstance or condition in that Church and ending with a recommendation of ethical behavior. Fourteen are attributed to St. Paul. Seven were written to a wider audience than a local Church community and are called universal or "catholic epistles." The genuine letters written by St. Paul were written before the gospels and are, therefore, among the earliest Christian writings. The others were written later and include the letter by James, 2 letters by Peter, 3 by John, and 1 by Jude. The last book of the New Testament is Revelation, or The Apocalypse, a revelation given to John, probably in response to the persecution of early Christians by the Roman authorities. More about that later.

Next week: blessings.

November 6: Thirty-second Sunday in Ordinary time

In today's Gospel we find that God is a God of the living, and this is indeed the core of our hope. Jesus has risen and is with us, therefore at no time should we be without hope for the future. Let us always remember our "neighbors in need" that they may also have hope.

My Brother' Keeper
 Factory layoff, cash flow gone
 Irate landlord at the door
 "Blessed are the poor"
 Scrawny children, pantry shelves bare
 Not even crumbs left on the floor
 "Give out of joyful abundance"
 Public service notice, shivering soon
 Out of options to explore
 "Do unto others as you would have them do unto you"
 To whom do they turn, these children of God
 Pleading evermore
 "Blessed are those who are merciful"
 Words on paper – a committee decision?
 Do we feel cold, hunger – their pleas to ignore
 "Judge not lest you be judged"
 Are we our Brother's keeper? He loved the poor
 That image may we adore!
 Giving is a matter of faith – not sight
 (Written by a Vincentian)

Orbs: The Veil is Lifting

DVD documentary

“The Veil is Lifting is the first documentary film that brings together scientists, spiritual teachers and experts to explore the orb phenomenon.” What are these orbs? What does the presence of orbs mean? How do we experience them ourselves? After viewing the documentary, it may become very clear that Heaven is in our midst.

Join us in viewing this documentary and follow-up discussion.
